

Bereavement Day of Reflection

"Holding Sorrow, Receiving Hope"

Tuesday, November 17, 2026

"Weeping may linger for the night, but joy comes with the morning."

— Psalm 30:5

The loss of a loved one changes every season of life. As holidays, family gatherings, birthdays, and anniversaries come and go, grief often returns in unexpected ways. Yet our Christian faith reminds us that sorrow and hope can live together within the same heart. This Day of Reflection offers a gentle and welcoming place to pray, reflect, and share with others who understand the journey of loss. Together we will explore the many faces of grief, discover the quiet strength of Christian hope, and remember with gratitude the precious gift of those we love. Like Mary Magdalene at the empty tomb, we will seek the Risen Christ who meets us in our tears, walks beside us in our sorrow, and gently leads us toward hope, healing, and peace.
